

CUMBERLANDS AND SOUTH CENTRAL WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT
BOARDS FORM AN INTERSTATE WIOA PARTNERSHP WITH COVENANT
COLLABORATIVE CONSULTING & TRAINING, LLC (dba The Justice Beat Talk Show)

July 20, 2021

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Press Contact: producer@thejusticebeat.com or 770-771-4707

St. Louis, MO – Covenant Collaborative Consulting & Training, LLC entered into a collaborative partnership agreement with Cumberland and South Central Workforce Development Boards for graduates of a web development training program. Through this WIOA (Workforce Investment Opportunity Act) agreement, dislocated and unemployed workers are placed as Next Generation Media Interns in paid project-based experiential learning and skills-building roles on the webmaster team from a fully remote posture.

The interns are recent graduates of Kentucky’s “Commonwealth Coders” a 16-week intensive IT training program that provides participants substantive education and training in high-demand fields such as Web Development and Design as well as Coding.

On June 8, 2021, Covenant Collaborative Consulting & Training, LLC welcomed and formally onboarded the following graduates of Commonwealth Coders:

- Alisha Bolin – Webmaster Team Lead (Cumberland)
- Stephanie Miller – Webmaster (Cumberland)

In addition, on June 22, 2021, Danielle “Chelsea” Logan (South Central) joined the Webmaster Team with a focus on developing an e-Commerce store as well as other web related special projects.

Both Bolin and Miller will complete 13 weeks and 300 hours while Logan will complete 10 months and 720 hours of project-based experiential learning and skills-building through the Show’s Next Generation Media Internship Program. The Webmaster Team’s scope of work includes, but not limited to, tasks involving design and creation, maintenance, and updating both the Justice Beat and NxGen Media sites in preparation for the launch of the Show’s 4th season in September 2021.

###